Ryan Throneberry Portfolio Critique

With your website, I like how it flows overall and can tell you put in thought behind it. While I was reading your background, it was very impressive but I feel like you need to talk about what industry you want to work in for a career with the digital media innovation degree and the kind of skills you have from past experience. For example, maybe you know how to work with Adobe software or data research analytics. Therefore, when I was going through the website I notice for the pdf for your resume it didn't open up to a new tab. I recommend you do that so the user doesn't lose your website or have to click the back button on the page. For the contact page, I recommend that you put your e-mail first then the social media links on the bottom and a smaller size.

Overall you did well and like the layout. Good Job.
